

Sinclair Broadcasting uses the public airwaves for free, and is thus obligated to serve the public interest, not partisan interests. Their decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary before the election is a direct violation of their obligation and responsibility to the American people.